Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

J. Willis Hurst, MD (1920-2011), cardiologist, professor of medicine, and writer. The only child of John and Verna Bell Hurst, John Willis Hurst was born in Cooper, Kentucky on October 21, 1920. When he was eleven months old, the family moved to Carroll County, Georgia where his father became principal of a small school. Hurst entered West Georgia College in Carrollton at age 16. After two years in the college, he transferred to the University of Georgia where he graduated with a B.Sc. in chemistry and zoology. He entered the Medical College of Georgia in 1941 and graduated first in his class in 1944.

In 1948, after internship and residency training in Augusta, Georgia and two years in the Army at Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Dr. Hurst became a cardiac fellow at Massachusetts General Hospital under Dr. Paul Dudley White. After completion of the fellowship, he first established a private practice in Atlanta, Georgia in 1949, then, in 1950, accepted an offer to join the faculty of Emory University. He was briefly recalled to military service in 1954 and assigned to the U. S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Maryland where he was appointed Chief of Cardiology. When Lyndon Johnson, then majority leader of the Senate, suffered a heart attack July 2, 1955, Dr. Hurst became his cardiologist and remained in that role until Johnson's death in 1973.

After his discharge from military service in 1955, Hurst returned to Emory where he resumed teaching and practicing consultative cardiology. In 1957, at the age of 36, he was named Chairman of the Department of Medicine at Emory, a position he held until 1986. He continued to teach after stepping down from that position. In 1991, Dr. Hurst was named as a consultant to the Division of Cardiology, Department of Medicine, at Emory and continued in this role until 2007.

Over the span of his career, Hurst edited over 60 books and authored over 350 scientific articles. Of special note are the books The Heart, which he created and edited for seven editions; Medicine for the Practicing Physician, which he created and edited for four editions; and The Quest for Excellence: the history of the Department of Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine, 1834-1986 which he authored in 1997.

Dr. Hurst passed away on October 1, 2011 at the age of 90. He was preceded in death by Nelie Hurst, his wife of 61 years. He is survived by three sons, John, Steve and Phil, and their extended families.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the professional and personal papers of J. Willis Hurst from circa 1954-2004. The collection documents Dr. Hurst's career and personal relationships, beginning with his service at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, MD and continuing through his retirement from Emory University. The collection provides evidence of the many close relationships that Hurst formed with students, colleagues and patients, including the late Lyndon Baines Johnson, former President of the United States. The papers include correspondence (1951-2006); files related to writings (1965-2007); subject files; awards and biographical information (1954-2003); collected materials (1978-1999); files related to Lyndon Baines Johnson (1955-2007); and photographs.

Arrangement Note

Organized into six series: (1) Correspondence, (2) Writings, (3) Subject files, (4) Awards and biographical information, (5) Lyndon Baines Johnson files, (6) Photographs, and (7) Other Materials.

Series 1
Correspondence, 1951-2006
Boxes 1-6

Scope and Content Note

The correspondence series contains letters Hurst wrote and received from 1951-2006. The series includes cards and letters from family, friends, professional colleagues, patients and students. The correspondence ranges from greeting cards to in-depth discussion of medical issues with other physicians.

Personal correspondence (Subseries 1.1) includes letters to and from patients, students, friends and relatives that is generally social in nature.

Professional correspondence (Subseries 1.2) contains letters to and from Emory offices and other physicians.

Arrangement Note

Organized into two subseries: (1.1) Personal correspondence and (1.2) Professional correspondence.

Subseries 1.1
Personal Correspondence, 1987-2003
Boxes 1-2

Scope and Content Note

The personal correspondence subseries includes letters to and from patients, students, friends and relatives that is generally social in nature. Of particular interest are cards and letters between Dr. Hurst and numerous patients and former students with whom he maintained a close relationship in the years following their initial contact. Letters received from former students, often many years after their graduation from medical school, demonstrate Hurst's commitment to students as individuals and the success of his teaching methods which emphasized treating the "whole patient" - not just the disease - and keeping accurate records of all patient contacts.

Series 2
Writings by Hurst, 1965-2000
Boxes 7-12, 22

Scope and Content Note

The writings series contains files related to some of the many books and articles written by Dr. Hurst, as well as manuscripts of speeches delivered to a variety of groups and organizations.

Information regarding books (Subseries 2.1) includes correspondence, research files and drafts related to Quest for excellence: the history of the Department of Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine, 1834-1986 (1997); Living with heart disease (unpublished); and Paul Dudley White: a portrait (1965).

Articles and speeches files (Subseries 2.2) contain the texts of numerous articles written for both professional and lay publications, forewords written for books authored by Dr. Hurst and others, and speeches delivered to groups as diverse as high school graduates and professional conferences.

Permissions and copyright files (Subseries 2.3) contain communications to and from Hurst requesting or granting permission to use information in publications, as well as copyright information related to some publications authored by Hurst.

Arrangement Note

Arranged alphabetically, except in the case of permissions and copyright files which are filed in chronological order.

Subseries 2.1

Books, 1965-1992

Boxes 7-10

Scope and Content Note

Information regarding books (Subseries 2.1) includes correspondence, research files and drafts related to three books written by Dr. Hurst. The first, Quest for excellence: the history of the Department of Medicine at Emory University School of Medicine, 1834-1986 (1997) details the history of the Emory University Department of Medicine from the founding of Emory College in 1834 through the many challenges of the growth and development of the Emory University School of Medicine and the Department of Medicine.

The second, Living with heart disease, was never published. The files include drafts of three sample chapters that were submitted to the publisher.

Paul Dudley White: a portrait (1965) was written in memory and honor of Dr. Hurst's longtime friend and mentor under whom he served as a fellow at Massachusetts General Hospital. It was published as the April 1965 issue of the American Journal of Cardiology.

Series 5
Lyndon B. Johnson Files, 1955-2007
Boxes 17-20, OP3

Scope and Content Note

The series contains correspondence, writings and collected materials related to Dr. Hurst's relationship with former U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson. The bulk of the correspondence is between Dr. Hurst and Dr. James G. Cain, another of Johnson's medical advisors and a close friend of Hurst, and members of the Johnson family, including L.B.J. and "Lady Bird." Also included are several files of correspondence related to medical care provided to Johnson by Dr. Hurst from 1955 through 1973, as well as letters to and from various White House staffers.

Writings include a review of the book L. B. J.: to know him better and an article entitled "The Rock and the Flower out of Texas" describing the Lady Bird Johnson Park adjacent to Arlington National Cemetery and Fort Myer army base, and plans for the L.B.J. Grove to be created from a portion of the park. Collected materials of particular interest include Bill Moyers' eulogy for Lady Bird, tributes to Lady Bird and L.B.J. and newspaper clippings.
