Collection Description

Biographical Note

Born in 1877, George Pope Huguley graduated from the Louisville Medical College in 1898 and was a faculty member of the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons from 1906 to 1911. Huguley also served as Captain of the U.S. Army Medical Corps during World War I. Later in his life, Huguley served as a member of the medical staff of the St. Joseph's Infirmary in Atlanta, now known as the Emory Saint Joseph's Hospital. His professional affiliations include membership in the Fulton County Medical Society and the Medical Association of Georgia; Huguley also served as vice-president of the Atlanta unit of the Hospitals Service Association. George Pope Huguley died in 1965 at the age of 87.

Scope and Content Note

The George Pope Huguley Collection consists mostly of photographs both of Huguley and others including his family, military colleagues and other acquaintances. Also included are several unidentified photographs. Other materials include certificates, personal effects, and four original diplomas from the Gordon Institute, Louisville Medical College, and the New York Post-Graduate Medical School.

Arrangement Note

Arranged by record type.
