Collection Description

Biographical Note

The Emory College Photograph collection includes 1124 class and faculty photographs from 1860–1911. Although several years are outstanding, the collection includes 1266 students and faculty members. The original photographs include both albumen and silver gelatin prints and can be divided into three formats: individual images mounted on cabinet cards adhered to the back of a multiple window mat, collages in which the individual images are adhered directly onto the front of the backing board, and single images of groups of people adhered to the front of the backing board. Due to age and storage conditions, many of the original images suffer significant damage from exposure to insects, moisture, light, mishandling, as well as the natural decomposition of photographic processing materials.

Scope and Content Note

The Emory College Photograph collection consists of still images dating from 1868-1898. The photographs document the class members of Emory College in Oxford, Georgia, which was founded in 1836. Prior to the start of the project, the original albumen and silver gelatin photographs were hung in public areas of historic Seney Hall, built in 1881, on the Oxford College campus of Emory University.

Many Emory College graduates of this period came from well known Atlanta or Southern families or went on to play significant roles in the history of Emory University, the city of Atlanta, and the region. Some notable examples include Warren Akin Candler, class of 1875, President of Emory College from 1888-1898 and Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, from 1898-1935 and Hiram Warner Hill, class of 1888 and Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia

Arrangement Note

Organized chronologically by year.
