Collection Description

Biographical Note

No information is available on John Wandesforde. He was apparently a 17th century seminary student in England. A note on the top of a sermon reads "A sermon preached by Mr. Belamy the 4th of July 1652 at Hupswett Chapell [sic]: in Romans the 5th and 15th."

Emory Libraries provides copies of its finding aids for use only in research and private study. Copies supplied may not be copied for others or otherwise distributed without prior consent of the holding repository.

Scope and Content Note

The copybook contains notes from a sermon in English along with short essays on subjects such as "Summer is better than winter," "Gentleness is in a prince even," "The shortness of life," etc. The significance of the work lies in its provision of a glimpse into the studies of an English student of the 1600's.
