Collection Description

Scope and Content Note

This is the manuscript diary of "J.R.", an unidentified Congregational minister from the Boston area, with references to contemporary personalities and reform efforts. The diary covers the period from January 1, 1851 through May 28, 1882. Entries for the Civil War years discuss sermons on the evils of war and slavery. Of particular interest is the entry for April, 1865 which discusses the Union victory at Richmond, the surrender of General Robert E. Lee, and Abraham Lincoln's death.

Emory Libraries provides copies of its finding aids for use only in research and private study. Copies supplied may not be copied for others or otherwise distributed without prior consent of the holding repository.
