Collection Description

Biographical Note

Dow Kirkpatrick was born in Sessner, Illinois, on January 3, 1917. He received his A.B. from Asbury College, B.D. from Emory University, and Ph.D. from Drew University, after which he did postgraduate work at Oxford University in England. Kirkpatrick ministered in many churches in the state of Georgia, among them being St. Mark Methodist Church in Atlanta and First Methodist Church in Athens. He also served several councils and conferences, including the World Methodist Council and the World Methodist Conference. Since 1975, he has served as a “missionary-in-reverse” in Latin America and North America. In addition, Kirkpatrick has written and edited numerous published works, some of them being the following: Faith Born in the Struggle for Life: Re-reading of Protestant Faith in Latin America Today, The Living God, The Holy Spirit, Six Days and Sunday: Pew-pulpit Dialogue. Kirkpatrick resided in Atlanta, Georgia, until his death on March 10, 2004. He was 87 years old.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of spanish-language writings on liberation theology, which Kirkpatrick collected while he was in Peru. The bulk of these materials concern the dialectic between Christianity and Communism.

Boxes 2 - 18 of this collection are unprocessed.

In 2016, additional materials were donated to the Kirkpatrick collection. These include oversize religious comics scrapbooks and a fiftieth anniversary plaque.
