DAVIDSON, SAMUEL, 1806-1898.
Samuel Davidson Letter to Jonathan Hamer, 1854

Emory University
Pitts Theology Library
1531 Dickey Drive, Suite 560
Atlanta, GA 30322
404-727-4166

Descriptive Summary

Creator: Davidson, Samuel, 1806-1898.
Title: Samuel Davidson Letter to Jonathan Hamer, 1854
Call Number: Manuscript Collection No. 271
Extent: 0.01 cubic ft. (1 folder)
Abstract: Consists of one letter written to Jonathan Hamer on April 6, 1854.
Language: Materials entirely in English.

Administrative Information

Restrictions on Access
Unrestricted access.

Terms Governing Use and Reproduction
All requests subject to limitations noted in departmental policies on reproduction.

Citation
[after identification of item(s)], Samuel Davidson Letter to Jonathan Hamer, Archives and Manuscript Dept., Pitts Theology Library, Emory University.

Processing
Processed by Courtney Williams, 2003.

Collection Description

Biographical Note
Samuel Davidson was a theologian and biblical scholar. Born in 1806 at Kellswater, Ireland,
Davidson was of Scottish Presbyterian decent. In 1824, he began attending the Royal Academical Institute in Belfast, but he did not complete his studies until 1832. He received his LL.D from Aberdeen University in 1838. In 1848, he received a D.D. from the University of Halle.
Davidson was licensed to preach in 1833, but his vocation was more academic than pastoral. From 1835 to 1841, Davidson was the professor of biblical criticism at Belfast College. During this period he began experiencing growing tension with Presbyterian doctrine. As a result of his changed opinions about ecclesiology, Davidson left Belfast and began teaching at Lancaster Independent College in Manchester in 1842. Davidson resigned his teaching post at Independent College in 1857 because of controversy over his rejection of Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch. The Davidson controversy of 1857 centered on an article he wrote for Horne’s Introduction to the study of the Holy Scriptures. In the face of this uproar, Davidson retired, but continued to publish works and see private students until his death in 1898.

Scope and Content Note
This collection consists of a letter written to Jonathan Hamer on April 6, 1854. In the letter, Davidson accepts Hamer’s invitation to preach.