Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

Morris B. Abram (1918-2000) lawyer, human rights advocate, and diplomat, born in Fitzgerald, Georgia. Abram served in various capacities for government and political organizations such as Peace Corps (1961), American Jewish Committee (1963-1968) White House Conference on Civil Rights (1965), United Nations Commission on Civil Rights (1965-1968), United States Committee on Civil Rights (1984-1986), New York (State) Moreland Commission on Nursing Homes and Residential Facilities (1975-1976), President's Commission for the Study of Ethical Problems in Medicine and Biomedical and Behavioral Research (1979-1983), and the National Conference on Soviet Jewry (1983-2000). Under President Bush, he served as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations (1989-1992) in Geneva, and founded United Nations Watch (1993) following his term as Ambassador. Along with practicing law in New York (1962-2000), he also served as Chairman of the Board, Benjamin N. Cardozo Law School, Yeshiva University (1976-1979). He was the author of an autobiography, The Day is Short: An Autobiography (1982).

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of personal and professional papers of Morris B. Abram from ca. 1940-2001. It includes correspondence, writings, reports, speeches, and clippings. The materials document Abram's lifelong dedication to civil rights and human rights issues through his participation in, and appointment to, national and international committees. The collection contains information about Abram's leadership in several Jewish organizations; his involvement in higher education at Morehouse College (Atlanta, Ga.), Brandeis University (Waltham, Mass.), Yeshiva University (N.Y.), and his work with the United Negro College Fund, U.S. Commission on Human Rights, and the United Nations.

Arrangement Note

Organized into seven series: (1) Personal files, (2) Organization files, (3) Speech files, (4) Audiovisual, (5) Printed materials, (6) Writings by and about Abram, (7) Subject files.
