Collection Description

Biographical Note
Camille Billops (1933- ) filmmaker and artist, has had an extensive exhibition, teaching, and academic career. She has been a faculty member at Rutgers University, City University of New York, and for the United States Information Service in India. Since 1968, Billops has been the art editor of Indiana State University's Black American Literature Forum. James V. Hatch (1928- ), theatre historian, has held numerous academic positions, most notably as Professor of English and Theatre, City College and City University of New York (1965-1993), and as Fulbright Lecturer, Cinema Institute, Cairo, Egypt (1962-1965). Hatch has published widely on the subject of African American theatre. Billops and Hatch currently live in New York City.
The Hatch/Billops Collection in New York (which continues to operate separately there) originated in 1968 while Billops and Hatch were teaching art and literature at the City College of New York. With the rise of the civil rights movement and a concomitant increase in racial consciousness, a demand rose for courses in black American art, drama and literature. Billops and Hatch found that very little had been published on the history of the African American cultural arts, and much that had been published was out of print. They began collecting primary materials for their students. Artists and writers also began to send material to them for safekeeping. With a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Billops and Hatch conducted oral histories with black artists in all disciplines. Billops began to photograph the works of black artists in exhibitions and private collections. Hatch began to collect published and unpublished plays, set designs, theater programs, and historical and biographical works. They also assembled a library of books, periodicals and clippings related to black cultural arts. Since 1981 Billops and Hatch have published Artist and Influence: The Journal of Black American Cultural History that features transcripts of interviews they regularly conduct in New York, as well as panel discussions and forums with minority artists. The journal sheds new light on movements such as the Harlem Renaissance, the role of black musicians, and the careers of filmmakers, actors, sculptors, photographers, animators, choreographers, vocalists, and painters. A complete set of the journal, Artist and Influence, is a part of the Emory collection.

Scope and Content Note
The Camille Billops and James Hatch Archives at Emory University consists of materials relating to African American culture and art. The collection includes a large selection of published and unpublished play scripts written mostly by African American playwrights. Of particular interest are the oral history interviews conducted by Billops and Hatch for inclusion in Artist and Influence. The printed ephemera contain posters and artwork, postcards, and calendars. There are also materials relating to African American theater and printed material relating to dance. The photograph series contains images of African Americans in movies and plays; as well as individual publicity shots of African American actors and images of African American musicians and bands. The born digital materials series contains an archived copy of the Hatch-Billops Collection website, along with born digital materials from a Mac G4 and external hard drive.

Series 6
Oral history interview recordings
CD cabinet, .5 linear ft. (1 box), and AV Masters: 6 linear ft. (6 boxes)

Scope and Content Note
With a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Billops and Hatch started conducting oral histories with black artists in all disciplines. Since 1981, some of these interviews have been published in Artist and Influence: The Journal of Black American Cultural History. The interviews document the Harlem Renaissance, the role of black musicians, and the careers of filmmakers, actors, sculptors, photographers, animators, choreographers, vocalists, and painters. Abstracts for some interviews are also included in the series.

Some of these interviews have been excerpted and published in Artist and Influence: The Journal of Black American Cultural History, several volumes of which have been catalogued separately. These materials may be located in the Emory University online catalog by searching for: Artist and Influence. The Rose Library does not have copies of all of the Artist and Influence oral history interviews at this time, some interviews are still located in the Hatch-Billops collection in New York City.

This series also contains several video recordings, documenting the work of African American artists, that were not produced for Artist and Influence.

Finding Aid Note
A detailed listing of the content of each interview is available in the collection file.

Artist and Influence interviews, (compact disks recorded from originals)

Series 7
Born digital materials, 2002-2012

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of materials from 2 hard drives containing primarily photographs and writings of Camille Billops and James V. Hatch. Files range from 2002 to 2006.

The series also contains an archived copy of the Hatch-Billops Collection website. This site documents the work of Hatch-Billops Collection, Inc., a not-for-profit research library of primary and secondary materials related to African American art, drama, and literature. The site's content includes an index covering volumes 1-30 of the journal, Artist & Influence. Unprocessed born digital materials include two hard drives.

Restrictions on Access
Access to processed born digital materials is only available in the Stuart A. Rose Manuscript, Archives, and Rare Book Library (the Rose Library). Use of the original digital media is restricted.

Processing Note
The archived copy of the Hatch-Billops Collection website has been captured using the California Digital Library's Web Archiving Service. This copy of the site was captured and preserved prior to the live site being taken offline in 2012.

Forensic disk images were created from the hard drives using GuyMager. Individual files were extracted using FTK Imager and scanned for viruses using McAfee's anti-virus software; none were found. Duplicate and system files have been removed, and files were scanned for personally identifiable information; none were found. Text-based files were migrated to PDF using Adobe Acrobat and image files were migrated to JPG using Microsoft Paint.

Access copies retain original folder and file names.
