Custodial History

The Rose Library was given the material from Rosemary Burke and Jean B. Crawford, James Burke's daughters, who, along with their mother, have served as the custodians of the papers since Burke's death and have done some organization of the files throughout the years. Rose Library staff packed the material at the daughters' residence in Annandale, Virginia, and shipped to the Rose Library.

Appraisal Note

Curator of Modern Political and Historical Collections, Randy Gue, acquired the collection as part of the Rose Library's holdings in journalism and American history. During accessioning in 2018, Rose Library staff removed and shredded 0.5 linear foot of duplicate materials consisting of printed material. Appraisal decisions were made by Accessioning and Collections Manager, Meaghan O'Riordan, in consultation with Randy Gue.

Processing

Arranged and described at the collection level by Leigh Schlecht in May 2018. Schlecht left materials in the order received and retained the titles provided by the creator. The creator's filing system is noted in square brackets at the end of container titles, though it remains unclear how this filing system functioned.

Collection Description

Biographical Note

James Cobb Burke (1915-1964) was an American photojournalist. Born in 1915 to the Methodist missionary, William B. Burke (1887-1947), James Burke spent his early childhood in China before the family relocated to Macon, Georgia. Burke graduated from Emory University (Atlanta, Georgia) in 1937 with a bachelor's degree in English Literature and then attended Princeton University for one year to study diplomacy.

In 1938, Burke began his career in journalism as a reporter for a St. Simons, Georgia, weekly, The Star. He reported for several other newspapers, including he Macon Telegraph and The Richmond Times-Dispatch (Virginia) where he met and married his wife, Josephine Griffin Burke, in 1942. The pair had two daughters and one son.

In 1942, Burke returned to China to write and research a biography of his father titled My Father in China (1942). He remained in China through World War II, becoming a freelance writer based in Peking. He became a staff writer for Time-Life International in New Delhi, India, in 1951, later becoming their bureau chief before transitioning into photojournalism. At age 49, while on assignment in northeast India on October 2, 1964, Burke slipped and fell off a cliff in the Himalaya mountains.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the papers of American photojournalist, James Cobb Burke, from 1933-1964, including correspondence, writings by both Burke and others, photographs, slides, negatives, and printed material, including documents relating to the Sino-Indian Border Dispute. There is a significant amount of material relating to Burke's assignments for Life Magazine, including correspondence with publishers and annotated drafts of photograph captions, particularly in China, India, Afghanistan, and the Himalayan Mountains. Printed material includes newspaper and magazine clippings, and articles.

Arrangement Note

Arranged first by record type, then by titles provided by the creator.
