Collection Description

Biographical Note

Malcolm Howard Dewey (1881-1966), born in Meadville, Pennsylvania, received his graduate degrees from Howard University (1912) and from the University of Chicago (1918). He joined the Emory University faculty in 1919 as professor of Romance Languages and organized the Department of Fine Arts in 1927.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of papers of Malcolm Howard Dewey circa 1903-1963. The papers include correspondence from sculptor Augustus Saint-Gaudens to Dewey's father, Dr. Edward Hooker Dewey, regarding patient-physician matters relating to diet and health (1903-1904); letters between Dewey and portraitist Wilford Seymour Conrow primarily pertaining to portraits painted for Emory University (1944-1956); and other miscellaneous letters.

The collection also includes photographs of Metropolitan Opera stars; articles relating to Glenn Memorial Methodist Church, where Dewey directed music and the Emory University Glee Club, which he conducted from 1920-1957.

Arrangement Note

Unprocessed collection; finding aid available.
