Collection Description

Administrative History
Emory University's Violence Studies Program began in 1997 as an interdisciplinary minor for undergraduates that focused on the causes, representations, effects, and prevention of violence, broadly conceived. It also focused on teaching skills in conflict resolution and mediation. The core of the program was an introductory class and a student internship. The program was discontinued after the 2005-2006 academic year.

Scope and Content Note
Records consist of correspondence, budgets, annual reports, program and event materials, curriculum planning materials, and personnel records.

Arrangement Note
Arranged in two series: (1) Curriculum and Academic Program and (2) Program Administration.
