Collection DescriptionAdministrative History

Woolford Bales Baker was born in Las Vegas, New Mexico in 1892. He received his early education in Arkansas. He received an A.B. from Henderson-Brown College in 1913. In 1919, Dr. Baker began teaching biology at Emory University and received an M.S. from Emory in 1920. He was named Assistant Professor in 1921. After a year of teaching at Columbia University in 1924-1925, Dr. Baker completed his Ph.D. in Protozoology from Columbia and was named Professor in the Department of Biology at Emory in 1926. Dr. Baker spent a year as a fellow at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Germany from 1932-1932 and was a Professor at the University of Virginia's Mountain Lake Biological Station from 1953-1955. In 1957, Dr. Baker chaired a committee that developed a statewide science curriculum for public schools. Dr. Baker retired in 1961 and in 1962 received the University's first Thomas Jefferson Award for contributions to Emory and the community at large. Dr. Baker continued to work as Professor Emeritus in the Emory University Museum. Dr. Baker died in 1993.

Scope and Content Note

The audio recordings in this collection were recorded by Dr. Woolford B. Baker and feature Dr. Baker's own memories regarding his time at Emory University in the Department of Biology and working with the Emory University Museum. Some tapes feature Professor of Geology James G. Lester as well.
