Collection Description

Biographical Note

John Herbers (1923-) graduated from Emory University in 1949 with a B.A. in journalism. While at Emory, he worked for the Phoenix and the Wheel. He began his journalism career with the Greenwood, Mississippi Morning Star where he worked for eighteen months. Herbers then worked for the Jackson, Mississippi Daily News. In 1952, he joined the United Press International, eventually becoming the Jackson Bureau manager. Herbers began his career with the New York Times in 1964 and worked there until his retirement in 1987. Herbers also published several books including The Lost Priority, No Thank You Mr. President, and The New Heartland.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the personal and professional papers of John Herbers from 1950-1996. Series 1 includes Herbers' New York Times correspondence and family correspondence. Series 2 consists of subject files primarily covering Herbers' years at the New York Times Washington Bureau, the civil rights movement, and the Nixon presidency. Series 3 consists of correspondence and reviews concerning his books, as well as a collection of all his bylines from the New York Times.

Arrangement Note

Organized into three series: (1) Correspondence, (2) Subject files, and (3) Writings.

Series 1
Correspondence, 1959-1996
Boxes 1- 2

Scope and Content Note

The series consists of correspondence relating to Herbers' work at United Press International from 1959-1960, the New York Times from 1972-1986 and personal correspondence from 1964-1996. The New York Times correspondence includes many letters that reveal the inner workings of the New York Times, how news stories originate, reactions to articles Herbers wrote, and criticism from New York Times editors, including A.M. Rosenthal. Particularly interesting is the critical correspondence and writings by Herbers and other reporters concerning A.M. Rosenthal's tenure as editor of the New York Times and why Herbers chose to take an early retirement from the New York Times. The personal correspondence consists primarily of friends and acquaintances responding or congratulating Herbers on articles he wrote, some family correspondence including letters concerning the illness and death of his son-in-law Chad Farris, and writings concerning the Church of the Pilgrims in Washington D.C. where Herbers was actively involved, particularly in helping the homeless.

Series 2
Subject files, 1964-1974
Boxes 3-8 (folder 1)

Scope and Content Note

The series consists of subject files relating to Herbers' work at the New York Times from 1964-1974. The subjects include civil rights, the Nieman Fellowship, suburban growth, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), Robert F. Kennedy's presidential campaign in 1968, Nixon's presidency, and Ford's presidency. The civil rights material includes Herbers' research and drafts for articles concerning the 1965 Civil Rights Act, housing and discrimination, civil rights conferences, voting issues particularly in Mississippi, school desegregation, the displacement of black teachers, and left wing movement's relations to civil rights.

The civil rights material provides an interesting and journalistic view of civil rights and race relations in the United States during the 1960's. Materials include statements from the Student Non Violent Coordinating Committee(SNCC) and Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and those of John Lewis. Also included is a report by the Southern Regional Council on southern school desegregation, a report by Hubert Humphrey on the coordination of civil rights activities in the federal government (1965), guidelines for enforcing the 15th Amendment by the Attorney General's Office (1965), and a memorandum supporting the challenge by African Americans to the seating of Mississippi congressman (1965).

The Nieman Fellowship material includes congratulatory letters upon Herbers' winning a Nieman Fellowship at Harvard, as well as materials he submitted in his application. The suburban growth section consists of three folders of impressions and notes Herbers took while touring cities and suburban areas in 1969 and the early 1970's sponsored by the National Urban League. The material includes information on the history of suburban development in the United States.

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) material contains Herbers' research concerning the power and changing nature of the Office of Management and Budget during the years of Nixon's presidency. The material contains evidence supporting Herbers' thesis that the OMB ran the government during the Watergate years. imarily consists of White House press releases, pool reports, and newspaper articles, particularly concerning Ford's travels to Asia and Siberia.

The Robert F. Kennedy (RFK) campaign section includes many speeches of Robert F. Kennedy, press releases during the 1968 presidential campaign and drafts of articles by Herbers. The Nixon presidency material primarily consists of draft articles by Herbers on Nixon, as well as many speeches, press releases, and pool reports following Nixon's presidency. Some of the material includes a report published by the Indochina Peace Campaign on a conspiracy to suppress dissent at the President's public appearances, Watergate Special Prosecution force status report in 1974, many press releases and pool reports on Nixon's 1974 Middle East trip, and research on the growing power of the presidency. The Ford section pr
