Collection Description

Biographical Note
Lewis Alexander Leonard (July 10, 1845-1926), a pioneer newspaper editor and author, was born on Poplar Island in Chesapeake Bay, opposite Baltimore, Maryland; he died in Cincinnati, Ohio. His father Nathaniel Leonard, was a ship builder. After receiving a university education, Leonard practiced law in East Maryland for a time and in Lafayette, Indiana, and then moved to Cincinnati, Ohio. Leonard was a reporter for the Enquirer before becoming editor of the old Cincinnati Star. When the Star consolidated with the Times, in June, 1880, Leonard continued as editor of the Times-Star until 1882 when he was made manager. He left the Times-Star in 1884 and become editor of newspapers in Detroit and Albany, New York (Albany Time-Union). He was regarded an authority on the evaluation of newspaper plants and was employed to appraise important newspapers in Chicago and New York, including the World. Leonard was personally acquainted with several Presidents; in addition he was prominent in National Democratic conventions for a number of years, handling publicity matters.

Scope and Content Note
This collection consists of the papers of Lewis Alexander Leonard from 1820-1925. The papers include 89 letters; a folder of documents; a folder of the Ulysses S. Grant note; one folder of miscellaneous material; an engraved portrait of Leonard; and three pages of the Leonard family scrapbook.

The letters and notes include correspondence, 1865-1925 (68 letters) of statesmen, writers, actors, and other public figures including: Samuel S. Cox, Oliver Wendell Holmes, John D. Rockefeller, William T. Sherman, Charles P. Taft, William H. Taft, Ellen Terry, George P. Upton, John G. Whittier, and Leonard Wood. Many letters deal with Leonard's activities as editor of the Times-Star and the Albany Times-Union and with his two biographies. These letters are primarily of value for their autographs.

In addition, there are letters relating to the Confederate flag origins by G. P. Beauregard (1889, November 5) and Varina Howell Davis (1889, October 25); Samuel F. Smith (1884, September 19) explained the writing of "America."

Arrangement Note
Entire collection organized into groups: Correspondence, Documents, Ulysses S. Grant note, Miscellaneous. Correspondence arranged in chronological order.
