Collection Description

Biographical Note
Fannie Lee Leverette (circa 1869-1956), a public school teacher and journalist, was born in Eatonton, Putnam County, Georgia. Leverette was the daughter of Frank Leverette and Mary Ella Wyatt Leverette. She was educated in the public schools of Eatonton and at Wesleyan College, and taught in the public schools of Eatonton (circa 1904-1914), Social Circle (circa 1915-circa 1924), and Thomson (circa 1925-circa 1940). She also served as assistant editor of the Eatonton Messenger and as Eatonton correspondent for the Macon Telegraph, the Atlanta Journal, the Savannah Morning News, and the Augusta Chronicle.

Scope and Content Note
The collection consists of a microfilm copy of four scrapbooks kept by Fannie Lee Leverette from 1900-1948. The scrapbooks include letters, photographs, clippings, and memorabilia documenting Miss Leverette's personal life and professional career. Major portions of the scrapbooks relate to Eatonton, Miss Leverette's home, and to Thomson and Social Circle. Included are letters, articles, and photographs relating to the family of Joel Chandler Harris, of Eatonton houses and people, and articles by Miss Leverette about the history of Eatonton.
