Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

The Morrigu Press was founded by Nicholas Hughes, the son of Ted Hughes and Sylvia Plath, in 1979 when Nicholas was 18 years old. The press operated between 1979 and 1983, producing limited edition broadsides and booklets of Ted Hughes poems. These broadsides were printed by hand on an Albion handpress that was a gift from his aunt, Olwyn Hughes. The press's colophon was drawn and designed by Leonard Baskin, an American illustrator who frequently collaborated with Ted Hughes.
