Collection Description

Biographical Note
Jack Nelson (1929-2009), Pulitzer Prize winning investigative journalist, was born in 1929 to Howard and Barbara O'Donnell Nelson in Talladega, Alabama. He was raised in Biloxi, Mississippi and graduated from Notre Dame High School in 1947. Instead of attending college, he began his first job as a reporter for the Biloxi Daily Herald (Mississippi). He began working for the Atlanta Constitution (Georgia), in 1952. In 1960, Nelson won the Pulitzer Prize for Journalism for a series of articles he wrote exposing abuses at the Milledgeville (Georgia) State Hospital, a hospital for individuals suffering from mental illness. In 1964, the editor of the Los Angeles Times (California) recruited Nelson to open the paper's Atlanta (Georgia) bureau. He joined the paper's Washington, D.C., bureau in 1975, serving as bureau chief from 1975-1996 and the chief Washington correspondent until his retirement in 2001.

As a journalist, he covered the murder of Viola Liuzzo; the Orangeburg Massacre; the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) use of agents provocateurs in Meridian, Mississippi; and the Watergate scandal. For his coverage of the Watergate story, he interviewed Alfred C. Baldwin, III, a key witness to the break-in. After, Federal prosecutors threatened to revoke Baldwin's immunity in an attempt to suppress the story, the paper fought a gag order, taking the case to the United States Supreme Court and earning the right to publish the story. Nelson also published several books, many on topics he had covered as a journalist, including The Censors and the Schools (1963), The Orangeburg Massacre (1970) and Terror in the Night (1993). Terror in the Night details Ku Klux Klan terrorism of the Jewish community in Meridian, Mississippi, and the FBI's ensuing ambush of local Klanspeople. Nelson was also a regular guest on television news programs, most notably Washington Week in Review.
Nelson married Virginia Dare in 1951 and the couple had three children: Karen, Mike, and Steven. The two divorced and he married his second wife Barbara Matusow in 1974. He died of pancreatic cancer in 2009.

Scope and Content Note
The collection consists of the papers of Jack Nelson from 1940-2011, including personal and professional papers, speeches and other writings, and subject files. Personal and professional papers contain awards, correspondence, photographs, and political cartoons. Correspondence is primarily in response to Nelson's published writings and television appearances. Photographs document Nelson's family, as well as his professional relationships and topics about which he wrote. Political cartoons are primarily by Paul Conrad. Speeches by Nelson are primarily about his experiences as a reporter during the Civil Rights Movement, his Pulitzer Prize-winning articles on the Milledgeville State Hospital (Georgia), freedom of the press, media ethics and credibility, and presidential politics. Other writings and subject files contain Nelson's newspaper clippings, research for his books, The Orangeburg Massacre and Terror in the Night, as well as statements before Congressional committees and an unpublished memoir. Research for Terror in the Night notably contains interviews with individuals involved in the Meridian, Mississippi, story, including Thomas A. Tarrants, III; Kathy Ainsworth; Al Binder; Sam Bowers; and Roy Moore; as well as Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) surveillance files for many of these individuals. Subject files also include documentation of the FBI's surveillance of Nelson and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's efforts to discredit Nelson's reporting on the organization.

Arrangement Note
Organized into 4 series: (1) Personal and professional papers, (2) Speeches, (3) Other writings and subject files, and (4) Born digital material.
Description of Series

Series 1: Personal and professional papers, 1940-2011
Series 2: Speeches, 1960-2007
Series 3: Other writings and subject files, 1940-2008
Series 4: Born digital material, circa 1965-2010
Series 1
Personal and professional papers, 1940-2011
Boxes 1 - 5, OP 1 - 3, and AV 1 - 4

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of Jack Nelson's personal and professional papers, not including his writings, from 1940-2011 and contains awards, correspondence, family papers, photographs, and political cartoons by Paul Conrad. Correspondence is primarily in response to Nelson's newspaper articles, his books, Terror in the Night and The Orangeburg Massacre, and his appearances on the television program Washington Week in Review. Photographs include personal family photos; headshots of Nelson; photos of Nelson with politicians and journalists, such as Max Cleland, Vernon Jordan, Ralph McGill, and Eugene Patterson; and photographs documenting events on which Nelson reported, including the Bogalusa, Louisiana, riots (1965), civil rights demonstrations, and George Wallace's presidential campaign (1968). Political cartoons in the series are primarily drawn by Paul Conrad and inscribed from Conrad to Nelson.

Arrangement Note
Arranged in alphabetical order.

Series 2
Speeches, 1960-2007
Boxes 5 - 13 and AV 1 -4

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of speeches given by Nelson from 1960-2007 and includes drafts of texts, as well as planning documents and correspondence. Speeches in the series were given at academic institutions, civic organizations, and professional press/journalism organizations and events. Nelson commonly spoke on his experiences as a reporter during the Civil Rights Movement, his Pulitzer Prize-winning articles on the Milledgeville State Hospital (Georgia), freedom of the press, media ethics and credibility, and presidential politics.

Arrangement Note
Arranged in chronological order.

Restrictions on Access
Special restrictions apply: Use copies have not been made for audiovisual material in this collection. Researchers must contact the Rose Library at least two weeks in advance for access to these items. Collection restrictions, copyright limitations, or technical complications may hinder the Rose Library's ability to provide access to audiovisual material.

Processing Note
Archivists described speeches using information available from the collection. When a title was present on the speech text, it is included in the file title along with the location of the speech, if it was known. Some file titles may include only the title or the location. A small number of speeches had neither a title nor location information and have been described using the filename printed on the document. Some files may include correspondence and/or planning documents but most do not. The series does not include Nelson's remarks before Congressional committees, prepared texts for Nelson's appearances on television, or lectures prepared for courses taught by Nelson. For those documents, see Series 3: Other writings and subject files.

Series 3
Other writings and subject files, 1940-2008
Boxes 13 - 30, OP 1, OBV 1, and AV 1 - 4

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of Nelson's writings, other than speeches, and subject files from 1940-2008. A significant portion of this series consists of newspaper clippings of articles written by Nelson. The series also includes research for Nelson's book, Terror in the Night, about Ku Klux Klan terrorizing of local Jewish residents of Meridian, Mississippi, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) covert operations to end the violence. Research includes interviews with local law enforcement, victims, Ku Klux Klansmen, and residents of Meridian, as well as the FBI surveillance files for many individuals, such as Thomas A. Tarrants, III, Kathy Ainsworth, Al Binder, Sam Bowers, and Roy Moore, among others. Other writings by Nelson in the series consist of statements before Congressional committees, drafts of his book, The Orangeburg Massacre, and drafts of an unpublished memoir. The series also contains files documenting FBI surveillance of Jack Nelson and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's efforts to discredit Nelson's reporting on the organization. The files include correspondence with George McGovern, a transcript of a meeting between Los Angeles Times Washington (D.C.) Bureau Chief David Kraslow and J. Edgar Hoover about Nelson, and Nelson's FBI file. Subject files in the series contain material that may have been used as research for newspaper articles or other writings by Nelson. A small number of files include drafts of articles but most do not.

Arrangement Note
Arranged in alphabetical order.

Terms Governing Use and Reproduction
Special restrictions apply: The series contains some copies of original materials held by other institutions; these copies may not be reproduced without the permission of the owner of the originals.

Restrictions on Access
Special restrictions apply: Use copies have not been made for audiovisual material in this collection. Researchers must contact the Rose Library at least two weeks in advance for access to these items. Collection restrictions, copyright limitations, or technical complications may hinder the Rose Library's ability to provide access to audiovisual material.

Processing Note
For the most part, archivists kept the original order of subject files intact even though some contents may seem unrelated. A few exceptions were made for items that were clear misfiles and identifiable as such by dates or significantly divergent topics. Otherwise, archivists assumed that material is related regardless of whether that relationship is immediately recognizable.

Series 4
Born digital material, circa 1965-2010
185MB of born digital material (124 files)

Scope and Content Note
Born digital materials include roughly 100 digital photographs (many of which were gathered together for Nelson's memorial service), a number of FBI files released following Freedom of Information Act requests and relating to the Deacons for Defense of Justice, clippings relating to the Deacons’ confrontation with the Ku Klux Klan in Bogalusa, Louisiana, in 1965, and an archived copy of Nelson's memorial website set up by the family and friends following his death. The site collects together documents relating to Nelson and his work and features tributes and memories contributed by friends and relatives.

Arrangement Note
Arranged by record type.

Processing Note
The born digital materials currently available to researchers were transferred from six CDs. Files were scanned for viruses using McAfee's anti-virus software. For the most part, files remain in their original format. However, a handful of files have been migrated from Macintosh Picture Image files to PDF. All files retain their original file names and dates. Researchers may also view an archived copy of the memorial website set up by family and friends of Nelson following his death.
