Collection Description

Biographical Note
Sam Nunn (b. September 8, 1938) grew up in the small, southern town of Perry, Georgia. The son of Samuel Augustus Nunn (1888-March 17, 1965) and Mary Elizabeth Cannon (b. 1903), he was the second of two children. His sister, Elizabeth (Betty) Nunn (b. October 28, 1936) married Jean Mori. Nunn attended the Georgia Institute of Technology (1956-1959) and served in the U. S. Coast Guard (1959-1960, reserves 1960-1968). His interest in national politics began early on with the influence of his great-uncle, Congressman Carl Vinson (1888-1981), who served in the U.S. House of Representatives for nearly 50 years (1914-1961). After Nunn graduated from Emory Law School (1960-1962), Vinson, then Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, hired him as an aide. In the spring of 1963, his father's failing health called him back to Perry, where he became active in civic affairs and Democratic politics, began his own law firm, and managed the family farm. In 1968 and 1970 Sam Nunn was elected to the Georgia General Assembly to represent Houston County (District 41, Post 1).

In 1971, Senator Richard Russell (D-GA) died in office. Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter appointed Atlanta lawyer David Gambrell to fill the vacant seat, and although early polls suggested that Sam Nunn had little chance to win, he announced his candidacy on March 15, 1972. Labeling himself a "commonsense conservative" and promising to "get tough in Washington," he defeated Gambrell in a primary runoff and Republican Fletcher Thompson in the general election. He was elected to the Senate in 1972 at age 34. In the three subsequent elections for the U. S. Senate, Nunn faced little opposition. He cast his 10,000th vote in 1996. During his first term, he was appointed to the Senate Armed Services Committee, which he would later chair (1972-1996; chair 1986-1994). He also served on the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations of the Governmental Affairs Committee (1974-1996; chair 1979-1981 and 1987-1994), the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence (1983-1991), Senate Small Business Committee (1972-1996) and the Senate Select Committee on Secret Military Assistance to Iran and the Nicaraguan Opposition (1987).

In 1985, he helped to found the Democratic Leadership Council (DLC). Fellow DLC members urged Nunn to become a Democratic Party candidate for U. S. President in the 1988 election. After months of deliberation, Nunn finally decided against running. During his quarter century in the U.S. Senate, Senator Nunn earned high praise for his ability to study controversial issues, to form independent opinions, and to build bipartisan coalitions for significant legislation. His expert knowledge of economic policy, defense, and national security won him respect nationally and internationally. Senator Nunn is also known for his success in strengthening and improving Georgia military bases. Throughout his career he focused on representing the interests of the Georgia farmer, encouraging small business, and preserving the environment.

Scope and Content Note
The collection documents Sam Nunn's childhood in Perry, Georgia; education at the Georgia Institute of Technology and at Emory University; military service in the U.S. Coast Guard; work on the U.S. House Armed Services Committee; law practice and civic service in Perry, Georgia; service in the Georgia General Assembly; service in the U.S. Senate; and post-Senate activities. The papers include audio and video recordings, photographs, political cartoons, scrapbooks, awards, books, memorabilia, computer files, and CD-ROMs documenting both his personal and professional life. The majority of the papers document Nunn's U.S. Senate career.

Arrangement Note

Only Subseries 9.8-Scrapbooks, and 9.10-Political cartoons are available to researchers. All remaining subseries are restricted.
Subseries 9.8
8 microfilm reels (MF)

Scope and Content Note
The scrapbooks were created by Senator Nunn's press section to document his political career. They contain news stories, letters to the editor, editorial cartoons and editorial pieces about Senator Nunn and editorial piece written by him. The articles are arranged chronologically. The first scrapbook documents Senator Nunn's first campaign for the Senate in 1972. The last one documents his activities in 1993. Articles from subsequent years were filed loose in folders rather than being glued into scrapbooks. The press staff assigned the scrapbooks volume numbers, which are noted on the volumes and in the list below. For preservation reasons, starting with the mid-1987 scrapbooks, photocopies of the articles were placed in the scrapbooks, rather than the original newspaper clippings. Many scrapbooks are very fragile, and most have articles and date labels falling out.

The scrapbooks were prepared using clippings obtained through a press clipping service. Since the service only supplied Georgia newspaper clippings, there are few national news stories. Wire services supplied many of the stories, and there are many identical or nearly identical articles clipped from different newspapers. Considering this duplication, the number of stories on a particular issue tends to indicate how widespread the Georgia coverage was, and not how long the story was considered newsworthy.

Scrapbooks covering the period from 1970 through May 1987 were sent to Emory prior to 1991. Most of these scrapbooks were microfilmed (35mm) by the Senate Microforms Unit. Kathy Dixson created a rough subject index to these volumes during the process of her research for the Sam Nunn exhibit in the Houston County Board of Education Building in Perry, Georgia. The press section created a subject index to the remaining volumes (June 1987 - January 1993) before sending them to Emory when Senator Nunn retired.

The clippings collected by the press section sometimes supplement (and duplicate) the clippings in the scrapbooks. At other times, clippings serve as a substitute for a scrapbook. Some clippings collected by the Senate staff were found in a filing cabinet in the archives section (perhaps being saved for a scrapbook) and in the press section. One folder of 1980-89 clippings (it is unknown which one) was compared with the scrapbook of the period and duplicates were removed. The other 1980-89 clippings were arranged by region. Most of the clippings from 1993-1995 were microfilmed and then destroyed by the Senate staff.

Clippings collected by the Rose Library staff were saved for staff reference. Many of these clippings have been photocopied and placed in the Sam Nunn archive reference file.

Arrangement Note
Arranged in chronological order.

Series 10
U.S. Senate subject files, 1972-1985

Scope and Content Note
The Senator's offices used the central filing system created by the National Archives and Records Administration from 1972-1978. The Atlanta office continued to use a modified version of this central filing system (dividing the records into office administration, federal, and state) until 1985. The subject files include administrative records, legislative issue records, constituent mail, case files, press files, political files and research materials. Carbon copies of constituent correspondence and casework along with the letters and documentation sent by constituents were filed by subject in these files, providing subject access to this correspondence. There are many documents containing corrections written by Nunn. The subject files contain few speeches or press releases.

Series 11
U.S. Senate committee files, 1971-1996

Scope and Content Note
The series consists of files relating to various committees that Nunn served on including the Iran-Contra Select Committee files, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations files, and the Senate Arm Services Committee files.

Arrangement Note
Organized into three subseries: (1) Iran-Contra Select Committee files, (2) Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations files, and (3) Senate Arm Services Committee files.

Restrictions on Access
Entire series is restricted.
Series 12
17 linear ft. (31 boxes) and OP1-2

Scope and Content Note
The photographs were collected by Senator Nunn's press section and by his family. They document his family, childhood, education, career, and leisure activities. The majority of the images record his Senate activities.

The press staff created individual descriptions for these photographs in several databases, which were also accessioned. An index to the photographs, generated from the databases, is available in the Emory University the Rose Library. Snapshots, negatives, oversized photos, and contact sheets were usually filed separately.

The subseries also contains digital surrogates of photographic images. Some of the images were created by the Senate Photography Studio for Senator Nunn at the time of his retirement. These images are in Kodak PhotoCD format. The images are of prints requested by Senator Nunn from the Senate Photography Studio, 1989-1996, (and not a comprehensive file of all images contained on the Senate Photography Studio negatives in the Nunn papers). They are not indexed. The Museum of Aviation, Robins Air Force Base, Warner Robins, Georgia, scanned some photographs while preparing their exhibit "We the People", which opened in 1996. Digital surrogates were also made as part of the SAGE digital archive project (1998-2000).

Negatives were received from the following sources: Senator Nunn's press section, the Senate Photography Studio, the exhibit curator for the Sam Nunn exhibit in the Houston County Board of Education Building, and the SAGE digital archive project.

Arrangement Note
Organized into seven groupings: (a) Prints (including oversized prints); (b) Snapshots; (c) Photograph albums (RESTRICTED); (d) Digitized images; (e) Negatives (RESTRICTED), (f) Slides (RESTRICTED), and (g) Unprocessed photographs (RESTRICTED). Prints are filed by subject according to the numbering scheme used in Nunn's office. The oversized prints are filed separately. Snapshots are filed in envelopes, each of which may contain several photographs. Some snapshots were filed with Subseries 1: Prints.

Restrictions on Access
Special restrictions apply:
Slides, Photograph albums, Negatives, Slides, and Unprocessed photographs are RESTRICTED.
Researchers must contact the Rose Library in advance for access to unprocessed born digital materials in this collection. Collection restrictions, copyright limitations, or technical complications may hinder the Rose Library's ability to provide access to unprocessed born digital materials.
