Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

Patricia Payne-White is a white environmental activist involved in a number of Atlanta, Georgia-area environmental and watershed advocacy organizations. She established the Peavine Watershed Alliance (PWA), a group dedicated to protecting tributaries of Peavine Creek, in July 1997 and assisted DeKalb County Parks and Recreation for a two-day Adopt-A-Stream workshop for all the schools in the Peavine Creek Watershed. In addition, she has assisted DeKalb Adopt-A-Stream in increasing the number of Adopt-A-Stream groups. She held leadership positions in Forging Leadership for Our Watershed (FLOW) and Preservation Fund, Inc. (PFI) that also supported the mission of the PWA. These organizations focused primarily on the Peavine Watershed in the North Georgia Piedmont region which includes the Druid Hills neighborhood in which she lived.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the papers of Patricia Payne-White from 1976-2008 and documents her leadership roles within the Preservation Fund, Inc. (PFI); Peavine Watershed Alliance (PWA); and Forging Leadership for Our Watershed (FLOW). Material include minutes, subject files, correspondence, promotional material, and binders kept for workshops and conferences. The majority of the collection documents her work with the PWA including promoting the organization and education initiatives such as workshops and conferences.

Arrangement Note

Arranged by organization name and then by record type.
