Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

Rosser Shymanski was born in Avon Park, Florida, in 1957 but grew up in Bradenton, Florida. He attended the University of Florida (Gainesville, Florida), graduating with a degree in television production. While away at college, Shymanski came out and started performing at Pride events and at local clubs. In 1983, Shymanski moved to Atlanta, Georgia, and started performing on Dick Richards' The American Music Show. At the suggestion of Dick Richards, he created DeAundra Peek as part of the Singing Peek Sisters Act, as well as several other regular characters over the years. A spin-off of the American Music Show was developed and focused on DeAundra Peek, the perpetual sixteen-year-old musical prodigy and teenage southern belle. It was broadcasted weekly from the community room at "Odums All-Doublewide Mobile Homes Court in Palmetto, Georgia." By 1988, DeAundra Peek was a sought-after act in the Atlanta club scene and performed at venues including Colorbox, 688, Velvet, The Popcorn Lounge, and Club Rio. This local popularity led to performances throughout the 1990s across the country including SPEW 2 Fest (Los Angeles, California); San Francisco (California) Pride; the Limelight (New York, New York); and the Pyramid Club (New York, New York) as well as nine consecutive years at Lady Bunny's Wigstock in NYC. In 1991, the Fox show, Best of the Worst (hosted by Greg Kinnear), identified DeAundra Peek's show as "the best" in a roundup of public-access programming that was "so bad, you loved it." The entire Peek family was also on a special episode of Access America on the HA! network, hosted by Fred Willard in 1990.

In addition to performing, Shymanski also had a long career with Georgia Public Broadcasting (GPB). Starting in 1988, he held several roles including as production manager on the series, Georgia Traveler. Shymanski retired from GPB in 2019.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of 140 VHS recordings of the Atlanta, Georgia, public access television show featuring Rosser Shymanski as DeAundra Peek from 1991-2004, and six VHS cases that do not include a tape. While all the tapes have the label, DeAundra Peek's TV Station, Rosser Shymanski explained, in 2021, the show's initial title was DeAundra Peek's Teenage Music Club. However, the show's title changed every "season" which was usually filmed over a weekend though the show was not necessarily aired in order of creation. Other titles include Nitetime Soiree Partie, Most Fun Summer Playhouse, and Hi Class Hall O'Fame Theater as well as holiday specials like the Special Halloween Movie Event and DeAundra Peek's Christmas Special. In cases where there was no title listed on the tape, DeAundra Peek's TV Station is used as the title. The show focused on DeAundra Peek as the youngest member (and first of the sisters to be played by a man; later, Baby Jean Peek was played by Paul Burke) of the Singing Peek Sisters and highlighted her performances and original music videos; interactions with guests, including RuPaul as an occasional guest host as well as other queer entertainers; community news; and recipes for Vienna Sausages.

Arrangement Note

Arranged on chronological order by aired date (according to notes on tape cases).
