Collection DescriptionHistorical Note

Positive Impact is an Atlanta, Georgia, non-profit organization whose mission is to eliminate the risk of HIV transmission and to empower those affected by HIV through education and mental health and substance abuse treatment services. The organization was founded in 1993 by Dr. Christopher Allers and Paul Plate in response to the HIV care needs of Atlanta's stigmatized and low-income communities as well as their affected partners, family members, friends and caregivers. In 1994, the agency received funding from Housing Opportunities for People with AIDS (HOPWA) to provide mental health case management to homeless people with HIV, and from 1995 through the 2000s, they helped people with AIDS secure funding through the Ryan White Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency Act (Ryan White CARE Act). Positive Impact is well recognized for their work in the AIDS community. The organization was a finalist for the Managing for Excellence Award from the Community Foundation for Greater Atlanta in 1997 and the United Way of Metropolitan Atlanta presented the agency with the 2000 J.C. Penny Golden Rule Award for volunteer services. In 2000, the Chief Executive Officer of the organization received the John Kappers AIDS Community Service Award, one of Atlanta's most prestigious awards for HIV-related services. He was also awarded a Fellowship to the Center for Social Innovation Executive Program for Nonprofit Leaders at Stanford University in 2002.
