Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

Juanita ("Nyta") Lynn Richardson was born in Nashville, Tennessee, in 1937 to William McKinney Lynn, an athletic goods salesman, and Juanita Osbourne Lynn. She graduated from Hillsboro High School (Nashville), then attended Southern Methodist University (Dallas, Texas), and Vanderbilt University (Nashville) in the 1950s. She received her bachelor's degree in 1988 from Georgia State University. She worked as an administrative assistant at Emory University (Atlanta, Georgia) for over 20 years.

In 1965, Richardson moved to Atlanta, Georgia, with her first husband and their two children, Richard and Laura. She became involved in local politics and public service, including as a founding member of the Northside Fair Housing Committee. She met Charles Weltner in 1968 at a political event supporting his congressional campaign. Richardson and Weltner began a romantic relationship in 1971 following her divorce and in the midst of his separation from his first wife. Weltner's divorce was finalized on February 14, 1972, and Richardson and Weltner married on February 15, 1972. They divorced in 1977 but remained romantically involved off and on until Weltner's death in 1992.

Charles Weltner was a Georgia congressman and lawyer. He is known for his denunciation of fellow Democrat, Lester Maddox, in 1966. He also successfully defended Ezekiel Torres against criminal charges associated with the My Lai Massacre in Vietnam. Weltner unsuccessfully ran for Congress again in 1968 and for Mayor of Atlanta in 1973.
