Collection Description

Biographical Note

Louisa Winifred Kendall Rogers, or Loula Kendall Rogers as she was called, was born August 31, 1838 at the Kendall family home, "Bellwood," Upson County, Georgia, to David Lane (January 18, 1790 - July 28, 1860) and Louisa Hanson Rogers Steele Kendall (October 11, 1804 - December 20, 1881). David Lane Kendall was a physician and plantation owner. This was the second marriage for both of her parents. David Lane Kendall had been married to Anne Reid Brewe November 29, 1802 - September 9, 1826) and this union had produced five children. Louisa Hanson Rogers had been married to James Cuthbert Steele ([1802-1804?] - January 21, 1833) and they had two children. David Lane and Louisa Hanson Rogers Steele Kendall were married January 10, 1836 and produced four children: David Lane (May 31, 1837 - November 28, 1865), Louisa Winifred (August 31, 1838 - June 14, 1931), Julia Helen (April 22, 1841 - June 21, 1910), and Thomas Rogers (February 16, 1845 - October 5, 1936).

Loula Kendall Rogers attended Montpelier Institute, an Episcopal school near Macon, Georgia. From there she went on to attend Wesleyan Female College in Macon, graduating July 16, 1857.

On March 7, 1861, Colonel P. W. Alexander wrote to Loula Kendall requesting that she "make a flag representing the seven seceded states" and included a sketch design. Loula made the flag and it was decided it would be presented to a member of the Upson Guards as they prepared to go off to battle. She presented the flag to James Henry Rogers (April 15, 1840 - September 3, 1875), son of Curran D. (December 24, 1807 - June 4, 1888) and Dorothy Wood Rogers (May 30, 1813 - February 11, 1881). Unfortunately, the present location of this letter is unknown. Henry Rogers, as he was called, served first as a first sergeant (May 11, 1861) and was then elected second lieutenant (April 19, 1862) of the Upson Guards (Fifth Georgia Infantry Regiment, Company K). (A photograph of what may be a model for this flag can be found in subseries 6.1.)

Loula Kendall and James Henry Rogers were married January 3, 1863. Not much is known about Henry Rogers, except for that gleaned from the collection itself. According to correspondence, it appears that after their wedding he continued serving in the Confederate Army, but until when is not clear. He seemed to have been involved in several different ventures including working in the family sawmill (circa 1866), owning a plantation in Wilcox County, Georgia, which he rented out (circa 1867-1875), working for the firm Clayton and Webb, Wholesale Grocers, Commission Agents, and Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Liquors, Atlanta, (circa 1868-1870), serving as a depot agent in Thomaston, Georgia, (1870 September -?), and serving a cotton factor under the same of Rogers and Cheney (circa 1872-1875). During this time, the Rogers family often lived apart, with Loula and the children staying at Bellwood or at the Rogers' family home, Mt. Zephyr. The family did live together during Henry's later days in Atlanta and after he assumed the depot agent position. Henry Rogers died unexpectedly September 3, 1875 and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery, Thomaston, Georgia.

The death of Henry left Loula to raise their seven children: Simeon William (August 10, 1864 - December 27, 1912), Walter Kendall (August 23, 1866-?), Curran D. (September 12, 1867-?), Helen Graham ([July 30?] - February 14, 1938), James Henry (May 11, 1872-?), Thomas Richard (July 27, 1875 - [May or June] 1931), and Dorothy Louise or Dollie as she was called, (December 25, 1874 - July 10, 1910). She began teaching music at the R. E. Lee Institute, Thomaston, Georgia. In 1879, Loula moved to the primary department of Gordon Institute, Barnesville, Georgia, and taught here for close to twenty-five years.

Loula Kendall Rogers was a prolific poet. In her earlier years she used the non de plume "Leola". Some of her poems were published in Golden Rod and Cypress (Byrd Printing Company, Atlanta, 1914), The Harvest (publisher and date unknown), and Mayflower and Mistletoe (publisher and date unknown). She also had poems and other writings published in the local newspapers.

Loula Kendall Rogers organized the Willie Hunt Smith Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy (UDC), in Barnesville (March 27, 1896) and served as its president for over fifteen years (circa 1896-1910). She also served as recording secretary for the UDC-Georgia Division (1896-1897) and as poet laureate (circa 1916-1929). Loula was chaplain and directress of the Children of the Confederacy for the James D. Franklin UDC Chapter in Tennille (1923-1924). A chapter of the Children of the Confederacy bears her name. Along with her UDC work, she also served as chaplain of the Tennille Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Loula Kendall Rogers remained active up until the time of her death, June 14, 1931. She died in the home of her daughter, Helen Graham Rogers Franklin, in Tennille. The funeral was held in the Methodist Church in Tennille. Loula Kendall Rogers was laid to rest in the Greenwood Cemetery, Barnesville.

Biographical Source: Sources used to compile this biographical note include information found in the collection itself, "[Cemetery Records, Upson County, Georgia]," compiled by Jack Morgan and others, 1969, and The Early History of Upson County by Carolyn Walker Nottingham and Evelyn Hannah (J. W. Burke Co., 1930).

Scope and Content Note

The Loula Kendall Rogers papers consists of a wide variety of material types including correspondence, manuscripts, clippings, photographs, printed material, and memorabilia. This collection dates from 1811-1974, with the bulk of the materials dating 1855-1929. The collection is divided into nine series: Correspondence (1811-1954), Loula Kendall Rogers Papers (1854-1930), James Henry Rogers Papers (1862-1875), Family Papers (1810-1940), Genealogical Material (no date), Photographs and Photograph Album (1849-1922), Land Grants (1793), Collected Material (1836-1929), and Memorabilia (1847-1894). Genealogical charts of the various branches of the Kendall and Rogers families are available. These charts were derived from information found in the collection and from outside sources.

The strength of this collection lies in representation of life in middle Georgia during and after the Civil War. Both the Kendall and Rogers families had been well-to-do before the Civil War, but each lost most of its wealth because of the war and had to start anew. The correspondence, journals, and business papers found in this collection contain commentary on people and events of this era.

The major weakness of this collection is due to the fact that materials about other family members who are well represented in the correspondence, are not represented in great detail elsewhere in the collection. One such example is Julia Kendall Lockett, younger sister of Loula Kendall Rogers. She wrote many letters to her mother, sister, and children of Loula Kendall Rogers, but there are few personal papers to get a better understanding of her as a person.

Some materials in this collection are of a very fragile nature. Part of the correspondence had been in a fire and were badly charred. These fragile materials have been photocopied and the copies placed in the correct order within the collection. At the end of each series is a restricted box which contains the original fragile items. Because of their condition, they are not available for research use.

Correspondence, 1811-1954

Boxes 1-11

Scope and Content Note

The series consists of correspondence of Loula Kendall Rogers, James Henry Rogers, and other Rogers and Kendall family members from 1811-1954.

Subseries 1.1, Loula Kendall Rogers/James Henry Rogers correspondence, contains the letters exchanged between them, both before and after their marriage. The letters from Henry, written during his service in the Confederate Army, are from camps in Pensacola, Florida, Knoxville and other areas of Tennessee, Atlanta, and Mount Zephyr, his family home in Georgia. They contain commentary on the Civil War, his camp experiences, and news of family and friends. Loula's letters to him were written mainly from her family home, Bellwood.

After his military tenure had ended, Henry was still often apart from his wife and family as he sought employment. His letters were written from his plantation in Wilcox County, Georgia (circa 1865-1867), Atlanta and other areas in Georgia, Tennessee, and Alabama both while searching for work and during his employment at Clayton and Webb in Atlanta (circa 1868-1870), and then from Thomaston, Georgia, where he was employed as the railroad agent there (1870-1871). During this time, Loula and the growing Rogers family remained for the most part at Bellwood, but for brief intervals also stayed with Henry's family at Mount Zephyr. Their exchange of letters diminished in the 1870's as they settled permanently in Barnesville, Georgia.

Correspondence, Subseries 1.2, includes all other correspondence found in this collection with the exception of Henry's business correspondence which is found in Series 3. Correspondents include Loula Kendall Rogers, Louisa H. Rogers Steele Kendall, Julia Kendall Lockett, Helen Rogers Franklin, Herbert Mitchell Franklin, Dolly Rogers, McCrary, Thomas Rogers Kendall, Sallie Rogers Shaw, and many other family members and friends. Subjects discussed include family news, current events, and financial matters.

Arrangement Note

Organized into two subseries: (1.1) Loula Kendall Rogers/James Henry Rogers correspondence and (1.2) Correspondence.

James Henry Rogers, 1862-1875
Boxes 22-29, OP 3-4, 14-15

Scope and Content Note

The James Henry Rogers papers include business papers (1863-1875, no date) and personal papers (1862-1874). Subseries 3.1, Business papers, is arranged in chronological order and includes correspondence, ledger sheets, receipts, and cotton price information. These papers document various business undertakings by Henry Rogers including his cotton factoring and fertilizer business, Rogers and Cheney (circa 1873-1875), of which not much is known. The ledger sheets and receipts give insight into both the costs of food and other products and shipping charges for this time period. Personal papers, Subseries 3.2, includes journals kept by Henry Rogers during 1862, a transcription of another journal transcribed by his daughter, Helen Graham Rogers Franklin, a household account book, a commission certificate for the Grand Council of Georgia United Friends of Temperance, and a drawing of his cemetery marker.

Arrangement Note

Organized into two subseries: (3.1) Business papers and (3.2) Personal papers.
