Collection Description

Biographical Note

Sandy Creek Presbyterian Church, in Jackson County, Georgia, was originally called Bethesda Church. The church was probably established in 1832.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of a microfilm copy of three record books of the Sandy Creek Presbyterian Church from 1832-1906. The record books (3 volumes) include notes on the reception, baptism, or dismissal of members; lists of male and female members; notations concerning slave members; and funds collected for missions and for Oglethorpe College. Notes are also included on a committee appointed to deal with a church member who continued to use profane language.
