Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

John Adams Sibley (1888-1986), an Atlanta attorney, bank and civic leader, was born January 4, 1888 on a farm in Baldwin County near Milledgeville, Georgia. Sibley began his legal career in 1911 when he and his brother, Edwin, started the firm of Sibley and Sibley in Milledgeville after John graduated from the University of Georgia. Seven years later, Sibley moved to Atlanta to join one of the city's leading law firms, King and Spalding. In 1920 Sibley litigated one of his most famous cases, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. v. The Coca-Cola Company. The Coca-Cola Bottling Company chose King and Spalding and Sibley to represent them in a lawsuit against The Coca-Cola Company. The case centered on whether the contract made between the two companies in 1899 could be revoked by The Coca-Cola Company or if the contract was perpetual and permanent. Sibley won the suit. Recognizing Sibley's talent, Robert W. Woodruff later hired Sibley to be the Associate General Counsel of The Coca-Cola Company and, in 1935, Sibley rose to be General Counsel of The Coca-Cola Company. Sibley returned to private practice with King and Spalding in 1942. He resigned his position in 1946 to become the chairman of the board of trustees of a powerful Atlanta bank, Trust Company of Georgia. He guided the bank through its tremendous post-World War II growth. He retired from the board of trustees in 1959 but remained as chairman of the company's executive committee until 1962.

After his retirement from Trust Company of Georgia, Sibley agreed to serve as chairman of the (Georgia) General Assembly Committee on Schools. In the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision, the state legislature had passed a number of laws designed to circumvent the Supreme Court's ruling and keep the state's school segregated, including an amendment to the state's constitution that forced the state to end state funding for any school that desegregated. The legislation in effect forced the state to choose between complying with the federal courts or shutting down the state's public school system. The "Sibley commission," as the nineteen-member committee was known popularly, held ten town hall meetings across the state. At the meetings, Sibley reduced the emotionally charged issue of school desegregation to a single question: "Are you willing to have integration in public schools or are you willing to have integration and abolish public schools and support the schools by private means?" Although a majority of speakers at the hearings opposed integration, the committee recommended that the legislature adopt the "local option" plan where local school boards would decide whether to desegregate or not. The state legislature adopted the commission's recommendations in January 1961.

John A. Sibley married Nettie Whitaker Cone on November 25, 1914. They had four children: John Adams Sibley, Jr., James Malcolm Sibley, Jeanette Sibley (Yow), and Martha Erwin Sibley (George). Three years after Nettie's death in 1934, Sibley married Barbara Sanford Thayer.

Their children were Barbara Thayer Sibley, Horace Holden Sibley, John Adams Sibley, III, and Stephen Thayer Sibley. John A. Sibley died on October 26, 1986 in Atlanta.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the papers of John A. Sibley from 1910-1991. His papers include subject files, personal files, photographs, printed material, and audiovisual materials. The collection documents parts of Sibley's professional career, his personal life, and his involvement with civic and philanthropic organizations and educational institutions. The collection does not contain much material from his time at King and Spalding or his time as General Counsel of The Coca-Cola Company.

The subject files comprise the largest part of the collection. They contain correspondence, reports and unpublished documents about people, businesses, organizations, and subjects important to John A. Sibley, including files about Agnes Scott College, Berry Schools, The Coca-Cola Company, the Georgia General Assembly Commission on Schools, the Henrietta Egelston Hospital for Children, the Ida Cason Callaway Foundation, Trust Company of Georgia, and the West Point Manufacturing Company.

The personal files include Sibley's personal papers, his speech files, honors and awards he received, and extensive correspondence with family members. The photographs series consists of photographs from 1910-1985 and five disassembled photo albums. It includes photographs of John A. Sibley, Sibley with his friends and associates, and family members. The photographs range from professional portraits to candid shots. The printed material consists mostly of articles about John A. Sibley and the Georgia General Assembly Committee on Schools. The audiovisual materials consist of recordings by or about John A. Sibley, including a commencement address Sibley delivered at Emory as well as coverage of Sibley receiving the Shining Light Award.

Arrangement Note

Organized into seven series: (1) Subject files, (2) Personal papers, (3) Speech files, (4) Family papers, (5) Awards and honors, (6) Photographs, and (7) Audio-visual material.

Series 1
Subject files, 1912-1989
Boxes 1-364; BV1-3; OBV1-2

Scope and Content Note

The series consists of files about people, businesses, organizations, and subjects important to John A. Sibley from 1912-1989. These files document Sibley's long involvement with Trust Company of Georgia and the West Point Manufacturing Company. In addition, there are materials about businesses and philanthropies that Sibley had connections to, including The Coca-Cola Company, Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Ida Cason Callway Foundation, and the John Bulow Campbell Foundation. Of particular interest are the items related to the Georgia General Assembly Committee on Schools. It includes files of the Sibley Commission's correspondence, printed material, reports, resolutions and tabulations of hearings from each congressional district. The subject files also contain materials about the numerous organizations and institutions Sibley supported, including Agnes Scott College, Berry Schools, the Henrietta Egleston Hospital for Children, Mercer University's Walter F. George School of Law, and the University of Georgia.

Series 2
Personal files, 1910-1986
Boxes 377-420, BV1-3, and OBV1-3

Scope and Content Note

The series contains the personal papers of John A. Sibley from 1910-1986. It is subdivided into Personal papers, Speech files, Honors and Awards, and Family papers. The personal papers concern Sibley's finances, properties, travels, and charitable donations as well as some personal correspondences and holiday materials. The speech files include over 150 speeches given by Sibley over the course of his public career. While his speeches include such themes as introductions of guests and endorsements of political candidates, the most reoccurring topics in Sibley's speeches are the South, the United States, Agriculture, Forestry, Education, Economics, and History. The honors and awards files include degrees earned by John A. Sibley and recognitions of his service in business, law, education, and community service. The family papers include correspondences between Sibley and his immediate and extended family, business matters of his family, and genealogical materials.

Arrangement Note

Organized into five subseries: (2.1) Personal papers, (2.2) Speech files, (2.3) Awards and honors, and (2.4) Family papers.

Subseries 2.1

Subseries 2.2
Speech files, 1927-1984
Boxes 400-413

Scope and Content Note

The subseries consists of John A. Sibley's speech files from 1927-1984. It includes copies of speeches, drafts, correspondence about the speech and research materials relating to the speech's topic. While Sibley spoke about a broad number of topics and themes, his favorite topics were all firmly rooted in the South. He delivered many speeches about agriculture and forestry in the South and business and economic development in the region. Sibley also spoke in support of political candidates for local and state offices, including Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, James L. Key, Richard B. Russell and Carl Sanders.
