Collection Description

Historical Note

"Will the Circle Be Unbroken?: An Audio History of the Civil Rights Movement in Five Southern Communities and the Music of Those Times" is an award-winning radio documentary. Produced by the Southern Regional Council (SRC), it chronicles the struggle to end segregation in Atlanta, Georgia, Columbia, South Carolina, Jackson, Mississippi, Little Rock, Arkansas, and Montgomery, Alabama. While other documentaries about the civil rights movement concentrate on national leaders and national organizations, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" focuses on "the essential local character of the places and people who collectively became the Movement." In order to capture the undocumented side of the movement, the producers conducted over a hundred original interviews with civil rights activists and combed through archives across the country for oral histories and other materials. "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" aired on Public Radio International (PRI) affiliates across the country in 1997, and it won a prestigious George Foster Peabody Award the same year.

The series consists of 26 episodes. Affiliates could choose to broadcast "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" as either 13 fifty-nine minute programs or 26 twenty-nine minute programs. The series kicked off with a "Prologue," which chronicled race relations and social conditions in the South before World War II. After this introduction, the series started telling the story of civil rights movement in each city, beginning in Columbia and ending in Atlanta, Georgia. The structure of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" served two purposes. First, it recounted the history of the movement in each individual city. This approach represented an important step because, as historian Robert J. Norrell wrote, "The civil rights movement had a different experience in each place." Second, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" used the struggle in each city as a way to highlight specific directions the civil rights movement took as well as specific strategies activists employed to bring about change. The Columbia shows, for example, outlined the use of "litigation as a route to social change" by tracing how a lawsuit from Clarendon County became part of the U.S. Supreme Court's Brown v. Board of Education decision. The Little Rock episodes then explored the implications of the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark ruling because the Arkansas city's public schools became a battleground over the implementation of the Brown v. Board of Education decision. The structure of the series produced an innovative and powerful history of the movement.

The programs in the series are:

Program 1: Prologue

Program 2: Columbia, South Carolina: "Our Place, Their Place."

Program 3: Columbia, South Carolina: "Under Color of Law."

Program 4: Columbia, South Carolina: "Hey Hey, Ho Ho, Segregation's Got to Go."

Scope and Content Note

The "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" program files consist of interview transcripts, audiovisual materials, scripts, program research files, and production files. The largest part of the collection is made up of materials related to the interviews that give "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" its unique perspective. Series 1 and Series 2 contain transcripts and tapes of interviews conducted by the SRC as well as transcripts and tapes from other archival repositories. Besides the interviews, the audiovisual materials also include rough mixes of the individual episodes of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" Series 3 contains materials the documentary's staff used to develop scripts for the twenty-six episodes, including notes, outlines, drafts, and "outtakes," and final versions of the scripts.

The program research files consist of inventories of archival collections, correspondence with archival repositories as well as historical materials, including biographical sketches, chronologies, notes, newspaper clippings, articles, excerpts from books, and guides for each city. The production files relate to the production and administration of documentary. Of particular interest in this series are the comments from listeners about the documentary as well as the station carriage lists, which list the radio stations that carried "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" in the United States.

Scope and Content Note

This series consists of transcripts of interviews conducted by the Southern Regional Council and transcripts of interviews gathered from other repositories. The staff of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" used these transcripts to assemble scripts for the individual episodes. There is also other research material in some of these files, including biographical information about interviewees as well as newspaper clippings. For example, there is a Central Atlanta Progress publication "The 'Sweet Auburn Avenue' Business History, 1900-1988, as Told by W.L. Calloway" in the folder with W.L. Calloway's transcript. Folders in the Montgomery subseries harbor a copy of "Dr. E.D. Nixon, Father of the Modern Civil Rights Movement: 'A Forgotten Hero'" published by the Alabama Historical Commission, a copy of the letter Jo Ann Robinson sent to Montgomery Mayor W.A. Gayle, threatening a bus boycott over a year before Rosa Parks was arrested, and a copy of the City of Montgomery Police Department's original complaint against Rosa Parks.

Organized into six subseries: (1.1) Atlanta, Georgia, (1.2) Columbia, South Carolina, (1.3) Jackson, Mississippi, (1.4) Little Rock, Arkansas, (1.5) Montgomery, Alabama, and (1.6) Miscellaneous Interviews.

Series 2

Audiovisual materials, 1957-1998

Boxes 15 - 37

Scope and Content Note

The audiovisual series consist of quarter-inch magnetic tape reels, cassette tapes, digital audio tapes (DAT), and video tapes. The cassettes and DAT tapes have been divided into two categories: interviews tapes or production tapes. The interview tapes feature interviews conducted by the SRC as well as interviews from other institutions and archival repositories. The production tapes contain rough mixes of series' individual episodes at various stages of the production process as well as interviews with George King, the producer of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" and Steve Suitts, a former SRC executive director, about the history and development of project. The miscellaneous archival files include audiovisual materials gathered during the production of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" that transcend the five cities covered in the documentary, including two tapes of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s speeches from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The video tapes relate to the movement in South Carolina, including two tapes of South Carolina Educational Television's 1991 "Manning Reunion" and one tape from the University of South Carolina Film Center about Orangeburg. The quarter-inch reels contain material from other repositories, including material documenting events in Little Rock, Arkansas, a speech by Martin Luther King, Jr. made during the Montgomery March, and Vincent Harding addressing an orientation session in Ohio for white northern students who volunteered for the Mississippi Freedom Summer project.

Arrangement Note

Organized into nine subseries: (2.1) Atlanta, Georgia, (2.2) Columbia, South Carolina, (2.3) Jackson, Mississippi, (2.4) Little Rock, Arkansas, (2.5) Montgomery, Alabama, (2.6) Miscellaneous archival materials, (2.7) Production materials, (2.8) Video tapes and born digital materials, and (2.9) ¼" Audio tapes.

Restrictions on Access

Researchers must contact the Rose Library in advance for access to unprocessed born digital materials in this series. Collection restrictions, copyright limitations, or technical complications may hinder the Rose Library's ability to provide access to unprocessed born digital materials.

Subseries 2.1

Atlanta, Georgia, 1967-1996

Boxes 15-18

Jackson, as well as Sam Massell. It also contains interviews with students active in the Atlanta student movement, including Julian Bond, Faye Bellamy, and Dorothy Bolden.

Arrangement Note

The tapes have been organized by format: cassettes or Digital Audio Tapes (DAT). Within each format, the tapes are arranged alphabetically.

Subseries 2.7

Production materials, 1993-1998

Boxes 31-35

These cassettes contain rough mixes-early versions-of the individual episodes of "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" as well as interviews with the series producer and others about the history and development of the series.

Arrangement Note

The tapes of the individual episodes are divided into two groups: programs identified by city and programs identified episode numbers. This division was necessary because early in the production process shows were identified by the cities. As the entire series came together, however, shows were then given an overall episode number. For example, the first Atlanta show was identified originally as "Atlanta, Georgia, Part One: Prelude of a Movement" but, later, it became "Program 21 [Atlanta, Georgia]: Prelude of a Movement."

Series 4

Program research files

Boxes 45-52

Scope and Content Note

This series includes two types of research files: archival and general. The Archival Repository Research Files contains correspondence with repositories, inventories of collections, summaries of individual collections at repositories, and licensing/use agreements. The producer and production assistants combed through archives throughout the country, searching for oral history interviews, documentaries as well as television and radio news accounts that would help them tell the story. The General Research Files are contextual historical materials they gathered about each city, the South, and the civil rights movement in general. This subseries contains chronologies, notes, newspaper clippings, photocopies of articles, excerpts from books, biographical sketches, maps of the five cities, guides to the cities, lists of interviews, and schedules of interviews as well as bibliographies for each city.

Arrangement Note

Organized into two subseries: (4.1) Archival repository research files and (4.2) General research files.
