Custodial History

Virginia B. Tate is the widow of Horace Tate. The material was stored in two locations: her home and the previous headquarters of the Georgia Teachers and Education Association (GTEA). In June 2019, Rose Library staff with the assistance of local movers packed and transferred the material to the library. At the time of transfer, ten boxes were identified as needing external preservation treatment by a third-party vendor.

Appraisal Note

Former Curator of African American Collections Pellom McDaniels, III, acquired the collection as part of the Rose Library's holdings in African American education and politics. While preparing boxes for preservation treatment, Sarah Quigley discarded about two linear feet of out-of-scope material, including a pillowcase, empty notebooks, a tape recorder, pencils, and holiday gift tags. During additional processing in May 2021, Meaghan O'Riordan condensed or discarded about five linear feet of out-of-scope material, including empty folders and blank notebooks. Sarah Quigley removed about one linear foot of material containing blank forms and personally identifying information for still living people. Carrie Hintz discarded one linear foot of out-of-scope material, including office supplies and junk mail.

Processing

Arranged and described at the collection level by Carrie Hintz, Meaghan O'Riordan, Sarah Quigley, and Laura Starratt, May 2021.

Boxes 141, 173, and 175 contain files that were organized by Vanessa Siddle-Walker. Each folder contains a "document summary" sheet describing the folder's contents, and the folders are numbered.

Collection DescriptionBiographical Note

Horace Tate (1922-2002) was born October 6, 1922, in Elberton, Georgia, to Henry Lawrence Tate and Mattie B. Harper Tate. He graduated from Blackwell Memorial High School (Elberton, Georgia) in 1939 and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in natural science from Fort Valley State College (Georgia; now University) in 1943. In 1951, Tate completed a master's degree in educational administration at Atlanta University (Georgia; now Clark Atlanta University) and was the first African American to earn a Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky (Lexington) in 1961, which he earned in educational administration.

Tate began his career working in public schools as a principal at Union Point High School (Georgia; 1943-1945), Greensboro High School (Georgia; 1945-1951), and Fairmont High School (Griffin, Georgia; 1951-1957). From 1959-1961 he served as the Coordinator of Student Teaching and Associate Professor of Education at For Valley State College (Georgia). In 1961 he became the Executive Secretary of the Georgia Teachers and Education Association (GTEA). He also served as the Executive Director of the Georgia Association of Educators and the Director of the National Education Association.

In 1969, Tate became the first African American to run for mayor of Atlanta, Georgia, though his campaign was unsuccessful. In 1974, Tate was elected to serve in the Georgia State Senate, District 38, and remained in that position for sixteen years. He promoted both educational equity and voting rights protection. In 1978, he was appointed to the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science under President Jimmy Carter. In 2000, the Georgia State Legislature designated United States Interstate 75 north of Atlanta, Georgia, between interstates 85 and 285, as the Horace E. Tate Freeway.

Tate was married to Virginia B. Tate. He is the father of Calvin Lee Tate, Veloisa Tate and Georgia State Senator Horacena Tate, who is also representing the 38th District in Fulton County, Georgia. Tate died in Atlanta, Georgia, in 2002.

Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of the papers of African American educator and politician Horace Tate, including Atlanta Board of Education (Georgia) files, audiovisual material, correspondence, Georgia General Assembly records, Georgia Teachers and Education Association (GTEA) files, National Education Association (NEA) files, photographs, printed material, publications on education, speeches and writings, and some personal files from 1927-2003.

Georgia Teachers and Education Association (GTEA) files and National Education Association (NEA) files document Tate's leadership in those organizations, as well as the finances, members, and programs of each organization. Much of the GTEA records were maintained by the organization at their offices in Atlanta, Georgia, and document the operations of the organization, including board and committee reports; correspondence; research files; files on programs, events, affiliates, and partnerships; and correspondence with regional representatives and affiliated schools. There are also files about the merger between GTEA and the Georgia Education Association (GEA), which resulted in the Georgia Association of Educators (GAE).

Many of Tate's personal papers and speech files are heavily annotated by Tate and some are labeled, "For my book." Personal papers also include files related to Fairmont High School (Griffin, Georgia) and the University of Kentucky (Lexington).

Georgia General Assembly records document his work on teacher retirement. There is a small amount of material related to his campaign for Mayor of Atlanta (Georgia) in 1969.

Audiovisual recordings consist primarily of GTEA meetings and conference proceedings. There are many recordings identified as "phone calls" that are dated from Tate's time as Executive Secretary of GTEA. Also included are speeches by Martin Luther King, Jr., Paul Rosser, and Horace Tate. There are commercial recordings for educators, as well as public information, including the news coverage of Robert Kennedy's death and funeral.
