Collection Description

Biographical Note

Emma Christina Tennant, a novelist, critic, and editor, was born October 20, 1937 in London, England to Christopher Grey and Elizabeth Powell Tennant. She attended St. Paul's Girls' School in London. Tennant married three times and has three children: Matthew, Daisy, and Rose. She published her first novel The Color of Rain in 1963 under the pseudonym Catherine Aydy and has written numerous others including The Time of the Crack (1973), Pemberley; or, 'Pride and Prejudice' Continued (1993), and Emma in Love (1996). She also was the features editor for Vogue in 1966 and edited Bananas, an anthology of English poetry in 1977.

Scope and Content Note

The collection contains items related to Tennant's relationship with Ted Hughes in the 1970s. The materials include a few pieces of correspondence from Hughes to Tennant during the 1970s and a brief note in 1998. The letters are short and mostly describe writing projects and travels. There are also three drafts of The Notting Hill Diaries, later renamed the Burnt Diaries and published in 1999, an autobiographical account of Tennant's affair with Hughes. The drafts are mostly typescript copies with handwritten notes and insertions.

Arrangement Note

Arranged by record type.
