Collection Description

Biographical Note
Theodore Ward (1902-1983) was born in Thibodaux, Louisiana, on September 15, 1902. He left Louisiana at age 13 and traveled around the United States until he began college at the University of Utah (Salt Lake City) in the late 1920s. In 1931, after receiving a scholarship, he transferred to the University of Wisconsin, Madison to study creative writing. In 1935, he moved to Chicago, Illinois, and began working for the Works Progress Administration in the Federal Theatre Project. He produced his most famous play, Big White Fog, in Chicago in 1938, and then formed the Negro Playwrights Company in 1940 to produce the play in New York City, New York. Ward received a Rockefeller Foundation grant in 1976 to produce his Our Lan’, originally staged thirty years prior in 1946, with the Free Southern Theatre in New Orleans, Louisiana. The company produced another of his plays, Candle in the Wind, as their final production in 1978. Ward's plays were political and dealt with subjects such as Garveyism, anti-Semitism, color prejudice within the black community, the effects of racism, and the appeal of Communism.

James V. Hatch (1928– ), theatre historian, has held numerous academic positions, most notably as Professor of English and Theatre, City College (New York, New York) and University of New York (1965-1993), and as Fulbright Lecturer, Cinema Institute, Cairo, Egypt (1962-1965). Hatch has published widely on the subject of African American theatre and, along with his wife, Camille Billops, collects primary source materials documenting African American art, literature, and drama. He served as Theodore Ward's theatrical agent in the 1970s.

Scope and Content Note
The collection consists of material collected by James V. Hatch relating to Theodore Ward from 1937-2009. The collection includes personal papers, play scripts by Theodore Ward, and printed material relating to his plays. Personal papers primarily contain correspondence, the bulk of which is between Ward and Hatch in the 1970s. There is additional correspondence between Hatch and Ward's daughter in the years following Ward's death. The letters between Hatch and Ward reflect the evolution of their relationship from acquaintances to business partners and friends. Personal papers also contain biographical materials including clippings, an annotated chronology of his works, and interviews conducted by Camille Billops. Printed material consists of advertisements, reviews, and programs, mostly for Big White Fog and Our Lan'. Play scripts by Ward include typescripts of his plays such as Candle in the Wind, Charity, and Our Lan’, among others.

Arrangement Note
Arranged by record type, then in alphabetical order.
