Collection Description

Biographical Note

John Wesley Work, African American composer and university professor, was born in Nashville, Tennessee, August 6, 1873, the son of John Wesley and Samuella Boyd Work. He graduated from Fisk University (1895), completed his graduate work there (1898) and went on to do post-graduate work at Harvard University (1896-1897) and University of Chicago (1908).

During his career, Work taught at a public school in Tullahoma, Tennessee (circa 1900); was an instructor (1898), professor of Latin (1903), professor of history and Latin at Fisk University (1904-1923?); and served as president of Roger Williams College in Nashville (1923-1925). As a musician, Work led tours of both the Fisk Jubilee Singers, a separate quartet of singers from circa 1899-1916 and wrote songs including "Song of the Warrior", "If Only You Were Here", "Negro Lullaby", and "Negro Love Song". Along with his brother, Frederick, Work compiled New Jubilee Songs and Folk Songs of the American Negro (1907). He was also president of Work Brothers and Hart, a music publishing company.

John Wesley Work married Agnes Morris Haynes of Staunton, Virginia, 26 April 1899. The Works had six children, of which one, John Wesley Work (1901-1967) followed in his father's footsteps as the director of the Fisk Jubilee Singers (1948-1957) and as a composer. Work died in 1925.

Scope and Content Note

The John Wesley Work papers consist of a speech, photographs, holograph manuscript, and memorabilia. The undated speech, in both holograph and typescript carbon form, is addressed to "Mrs. Bradford, Ladies and gentlemen..." and pays tribute to Joel Chandler Harris, Howard Weeden, and discusses the characteristics of "Negro" folk songs and spirituals. The photographs are of a woman and child and a woman and three children (folders 3-5). They were made from made from glass-plate negatives. There is no identification, but the woman may be Samuella Boyd Work and the child John Wesley Work. "Comrades, or Friends at Fisk" is a holograph manuscript, apparently unpublished and authored by Work, set in the 1890's and tells the story of Julius Harlow, a Tennessee country boy, who goes to Fisk University in Nashville and succeeds despite adversity. It, too, is not dated and pages 2-7 are missing. Memorabilia is a calendar page from Fisk University for the year 1906 which features a photograph of Jubilee Hall on one side and the words to "The Gold and Blue" by J. W. Work and F. J. Work on the verso.
